

CHADRON STATE COLLEGE

Dear Students,

This letter is to inform you that effective Monday, March 23, 2020 all Chadron State College academic courses, including those that were formerly taught in classrooms and face-to-face, will be accessed only through remote delivery for the remainder of the spring semester. At this time, campus will remain open, but your courses will all be delivered to you remotely. If you are remaining on campus, please practice social distancing by keeping at least six feet away from others and do not gather in groups of more than 10 people.

You're probably asking yourself: "What does remote delivery mean?" Remote delivery means your academic courses will be offered in a variety of formats that best meets the Student Learning Outcomes of each course. It could mean you're now going to watch a video in CSC Online in place of lab work, attend a group class using Zoom, or as simple as emailing a professor an assignment. I realize this method of instruction may place burdens on some of you who do not have textbooks, course materials, or a computer with you. If that affects you, please work with your professor to find a workable solution. Additionally, there is a web page devoted to assisting remote learning at <https://www.csc.edu/covid19/student/index.csc>.

I can assure you, faculty are currently working on these various teaching methods and will be communicating with the students in their classes by Friday, March 20.

As I mentioned, campus will remain open and students may access the residence halls, the cafeteria, the library, computer labs, and the complete range of student and academic support services. Please keep in mind, though, CSC will follow the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and State of Nebraska guidance and ask that you practice social distancing and do not gather in groups of more than 10 people. Finally, if students are employed on campus, please contact your supervisor for additional guidance.

I want to thank you all for being patient during this time of uncertainty. Everyone who works at Chadron State College is working diligently so you can accomplish your academic goals. Together we can continue to meet those goals, as well as make the health and safety of our campus community our top priority.

Thank you,

President Randy Rhine
